

Women, Earth and Economic Power

Sponsored by

Earth Rights Institute, Communications Coordination Committee for the United Nations (CCCUN), and the Henry George School of Social Science

Speakers will describe the connection of women with the earth from their professional perspective and personal experiences and how this translates into the sense of "economic power". There will be time allotted for group discussion following the presentations of 8 to 10 minutes by each of the presenters. Please note change of venue due to storm damage at the Henry George School.

Saturday, January 18, 2014

10:00 AM - 12:00 Noon

Chapel of Peace at the Community Church

40 East 35th Street

New York, NY 10016

Please RSVP: cccun@optonline.net

Moderator:

Alanna Hartzok - Co-Director, Earth Rights Institute

Presenters:

Lucy Webster - Economist; Member, Board of Directors and U.N. Representative, Economists for Peace and Security

Elizabeth Carll, PhD, - Psychologist; President, Communications Coordination Committee for the United Nations (CCCUN); U.N. Representative, International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies

Stephanie Rosenberg - Producer, New York

Amy Parekh Mehta, JD, LLM - Programme Management Officer, Permanent Observer
Mission of International Union for Conservation of Nature

Quisia Gonzalez, MD - Medical Doctor; Associate, Henry George School of Social Science

Teckla Negga Melchior - Development Officer, International Union for Land Value
Taxation

Rev. Yolanda Brown - Christian Minister, International Economic Development Council